

Visiting Assistant Professor of English (Transatlantic Literature)

The Department of English at Knox College invites applications for one-year appointment as a Visiting Assistant Professor of English, beginning September 1, 2023 with specialization in nineteenth-century transatlantic literature and an emphasis on diaspora, abolitionism, and/or settler colonialism.

Knox is an independent, selective liberal arts institution with a strong commitment to undergraduate teaching in a diverse environment. The department offers courses in literature and creative writing. Candidates should be able to teach introductory and advanced courses in both specialized and general fields. Candidates should also present evidence of culturally responsive pedagogy that can engage a diverse student body. Teaching responsibilities include two classes per each of three 10-week terms (Fall, Winter, Spring) and supporting advanced students in English and related academic programs.

Knox is a diverse college with over 35% of the student body identifying as American students of color and over 15% international students. Experience working with diverse populations of students and a commitment to teach successfully in a multicultural environment are expected.

Visiting faculty members at Knox are included in all aspects of the intellectual life of the College. The visiting faculty member will have a modest conference travel budget and access to research resources. The salary is commensurate with first-year, entry-level faculty positions.

Qualifications: Ph.D. in English or related field required at time of appointment; exceptional ABD candidates will also be considered.

Candidates should submit:

1. A letter of application that addresses your preparation for inclusive teaching and mentorship of diverse student populations, describes your research, and articulates an undergraduate liberal arts teaching philosophy;
2. A curriculum vitae;
3. An unofficial graduate transcript;
4. The names of three confidential professional references.
